

IAAH Congress 2018

PROGRAM, SKILLS BUILDING WORKSHOP IAAH 2018

October 3rd 2018

WORKSHOP TITLE	The theory of generations in the planning and implementation of preventive programs among adolescents - the possibility of application and criticism.
RATIONALE	Fast changes in modern society and the computerization of communication is increasing the role of communication technologies. The theory of generations that describes repetitive generation cycles and is an interesting survey of social changes taking place in a society with a change of generations allows us to take a fresh look at possible strategies for preventive interventions among adolescents and young people.
Facilitator:	Denis Kamaldinov , Candidate of Medical Sciences Public organization "Humanitarian Project" Novosibirsk. Russia.
Language	Russian (with simultaneous translation in Romanian and English)
Training objectives	At the end of the session, participants: 1. Will be guided in the main theses of the theory and will be able to critically examine the applicability of the theory of generations in their own work 2. Will formulate the main approaches and channels of preventive interventions for modern adolescents.
Schedule	October 3 rd morning (9-12h)